Commentationes Mathematicae Universitatis Carolinae is published quarterly and distributed by the Mathematical Institute of the Charles University, Prague. It is devoted to modern branches of mathematics.

Contributions are accepted written in English, French, German or Russian. Also preliminary communications are accepted (a detailed version of the communication must be added to).

Manuscripts of papers may be addressed to the Editors' Board c.o. Matematický ústav KU, 18600 Praha 8, Sokolovská 83, Czechoslovakia. These should be typewritten, double spaced, and ready for publication from the linguistic point of view. The symbols are to be of the exactly same form in which they will appear in print.

The authors are asked to add the classification according to the Classifications used in Mathematical Reviews or in Referativnyi Zhurnal, key-words and a short abstract of the contribution.

In order to shorten the time limit between the delivery of a paper and its publication, the number of articles containing more than 16 printed pages will be restricted, as a rule, to two articles having 24 printed pages at most in one copy; the maximal number of printed pages for a preliminary communication being 5 pages. One author cannot be published more than 2 papers in one yearly volume. 50 reprints are provided free for each article.
